Keynote Speakers

Learn from 3 international experts in safety behaviour, culture and leadership!

Kelvin Genn

General Manager Safety, Sinclair Knight Merz, Australia

Kelvin is the Global General Manager for Safety at SKM. He was previously the NSW Health Director of Clinical Safety, and worked with the Federal Government to design and produce the new National Clinical Quality, Safety and Governance Standards. He has also worked with the NHS and the Institute for Innovation and Improvement on the use of lean thinking as a clinical safety tool.

Kelvin is currently collaborating with NIOSH on Safety by Design, the University of Ballarat for the development of Adaptive Safety; and RMIT for Decision support in Engineering and Construction.

Damian Bassett

PSM Practice Leader, Australia & New Zealand DuPont Sustainable Solutions, Australia

Damian Bassett specialises in developing sustainable management systems for DuPont clients, focusing on process safety and operating excellence for major hazards facilities.

Prior to joining DuPont, Damian held operating, safety, health and environment leadership roles in a number of international manufacturing companies, in food production, toll packaging, agricultural chemicals, shipping, and polymers.

Amongst his achievements is the development and delivery of a corporate training package on 'Hazard Awareness for Non-Routine Operations' that is now used for operators, mechanics and technicians in plants worldwide and has been translated into six different languages.

Damian holds a Masters of Engineering Technology from Deakin University, where he focussed on Occupational Health & Safety and a Bachelor of Chemical Engineering from University of Melbourne.

Genevieve Hawkins

Principal Director, HSE Strategy & Risk, WSP Group, Australia

Genevieve Hawkins is the Director of HSE Strategy and Risk at WSP in Australia and has been working with clients in the development and implementation of safety strategies including safety leadership programs and cultural change for many years. Genevieve has sat in a number of different stakeholder positions and these experiences lead her to continue to challenge safety professionals to bring a pragmatic and engaged approach to safety.

DAY ONE Wednesday 30 May 2012

9.00AM	Welcome and opening remarks, Lesley Haines Deputy Chief Executive Labour Group, Department of Labour
9.15AM	International keynote Living leadership: a case study SKM has successfully developed and implemented an innovative and comprehensive "Liveit" programme which brings a whole-of-life approach to health and safety thinking, with particular emphasis on the role of leaders. Kelvin Genn General Manager, Safety & Wellness, Sinclair Knight Merz, Australia
10.15AM	Leading New Zealand: where to, and how? Launched in 2010, the Business Leaders Health & Safety Forum has multiple initiatives under way to grow safety leadership in NZ. The new chairperson explains how the group, by acting together, can extend its sphere of influence. Rob Jager Chairman Business Leaders H & S Forum, Chairman Shell companies in New Zealand and General Manager Shell Todd Oil Services
11.00AM	REFUEL &amp; STRETCH BREAK
11.20AM	Reducing the toll: focusing on risk and harm DoL is taking an increasingly focused approach to preventing harm to people at work. The High Hazards Unit is a specialised team to help prevent multiple fatality events and was launched in the wake of Pike River. How is it working and what progress has been made on the Department's harm reduction projects? Brett Murray General Manager - National Services & Support, and Francois Barton Programme Manager, Harm Reduction, Department of Labour
12.00PM	Tamahere explosion: case study What really happened, why, and what we should learn from this event which killed one person and seriously injured several others. Keith Stewart Practice Leader Health & Safety, Department of Labour, and Grant Nicholson Partner, Kensington Swan
12.45PM	RE-ENERGISING LUNCH
1.30PM	Workshop - I am a leader ... but I don't want to have THAT conversation. This interactive session follows Genevieve's well received presentation at last year's conference. Gain insights on how to ask the hard questions and get the desired outcomes. Genevieve Hawkins Principal Director, HSE Strategy & Risk, WSP Group, Melbourne
2.25PM	A new way of working ACC has teamed up with McDonald's to trial a new way of managing their relationship. Hear how it is working, from the perspective of both parties. Neil Mookerjee Relationship Manager Workplace, ACC, and Doris Testa Workplace Safety & RSG Consultant, McDonald's
3.10PM	REFUEL &amp; STRETCH BREAK
3.30PM	The great leap! A unique perspective on the experience of moving from a health and safety management role in a large nationwide organisation to a fast moving operational role within part of the same organisation. Denva Galloway The Supply Chain, Logistics Manager South Island, Progressive Enterprises
4.15PM	CONFERENCE CLOSING REMARKS

DAY TWO Thursday 31 May 2012

7.45AM	NZ SAFETY NETWORKING BREAKFAST ALL DELEGATES WELCOME!
9.00AM	Ministerial perspective Opening remarks from the Hon Kate Wilkinson, Minister of Labour
9.10AM	International keynote Process safety management - who needs it? An apparently robust workplace safety system can still overlook process safety, which is a quite separate issue. How can you include process safety in your programme in a way which ensures it is also part of the culture of your organisation? Damian Bassett PSM Practice Leader Australia & New Zealand, DuPont Sustainable Solutions, Australia
10.00AM	Lines of communication: keeping them open Frontline staff are the first to encounter new hazards and often have good ideas to fix them, but success relies on good two-way communications with management. Representatives from Fonterra's South Island operations explain how they keep those lines open. Keith Mason Southern Operations Manager, Fonterra Trade & Operations, and Greg Chaffey Health & Safety Representative, Fonterra
11.05AM	Bullying: agent of culture destruction Being bullied at work is devastating for individuals, but from an organisational perspective if left unchecked it can easily destroy efforts to create a good culture and open communications, and impair real productivity gains. Jonathan Black Organisational Psychologist, Farsight Ltd
11.55AM	When grief goes to work After a serious injury or death at work comes a period of grieving, as the remaining staff come to terms with what has happened. What is the best way to acknowledge emotional needs while refocusing on the needs of the organisation? Bice Awan Chief Executive Skylight and Commissioner, Mental Health Commission
12.45PM	RE-ENERGISING LUNCH
1.30PM	Not getting high Just about everyone has a drugs and alcohol policy these days, but few companies have as much at stake as an airline. How has Air New Zealand tackled this issue, and what are the lessons for the rest of us? Dr Tim Spratt Chief Medical Officer, Aviation Medicine, Air New Zealand
2.20PM	From challenge to performance Tools and strategies to transform challenging workplace groups - hasn't every workplace got one? - into high-performing teams. Interactive, inspiring - and useful. Ann Andrews Managing Director, The Corporate Toolbox
