

Ready to bring out the best in people, and yourself?

Programme Manager, Work Place Safety – Injury Prevention

- Auckland or Wellington

If you're serious about making big things happen, join our Team and help put New Zealand's injury rate into a tailspin. Because when we see fewer injuries, everyone sees the advantages - New Zealanders can enjoy happier, healthier lives...and you can enjoy a worthwhile and very rewarding career.

Focussing on the reduction of harm in workplaces across NZ, we need you to develop and manage a portfolio of services, projects and functions to help us ensure the strategy is effectively implemented.

With your health and safety and/or injury prevention experience teamed with your project management skills you'll support, plan and manage injury prevention activities across a wide range of organisations. Here you'll call on your well honed interpersonal skills to develop commercial relationships and establish the support of government and non-government organisations and industry to reduce injury and improve productivity.

If you have a good understanding of health and safety and an appropriate tertiary qualification, we would like to hear from you. In return, we'll give you the opportunity to work towards creating a culture of safety, in a customer-focused, innovative and staff-empowered organisation and with the skills you have you can take your career to the next level.

Apply at the web address below quoting the reference:
126108SU

If you have further queries, please contact Amie Backhouse on 04 918 7436.

Applications close Wednesday 11 February 2009.

For more information and to apply go to www.acc.co.nz/careers

Te Kaporeihana Āwhina Hunga Whara